

I would like to urge support for Option C and retain the single councillor per ward structure. In my experience, the Council currently operates well, the single councillor per ward allows for greater accountability to the voters and true local representation. There is no confusion as to which Councillor has responsibility for a particular ward, which enhances accessibility. The argument for change for the sake of change or because a different model is used elsewhere is not persuasive. Why fix what isn't broken?