Dear Victorian Electoral Commissioner,

I would strongly object to the above system being changed.

The present system works well and we are very happy with it.

When people have an issue they know who to speak to at Council and our Councillor is then able to speak on our behalf as representative of his/her ward .

Councillors are familiar with the Residents and their issues and Residents have confidence in their Councillor to assist them with any particular issues they may have.

We know our Ward Councillor and feel comfortable with the knowledge that we only have one person to deal with which makes things far less complicated.

Please keep Boroondara with ten single-Councillor Wards. There is no need to change a perfectly good working system?

Thank-you for your consideration.

Chris& Sandra Alexander
