Looking at the two options and having lived in the area for sometime, its really clear to me that Option A is the one that makes each ward represent the appropriate groups in the community. Its closest to what we have today and what we have today is working extremely well! The councillors are getting their work done and making amazing improvements for the community. I can't see a reason to make a radical change as is suggested in Option B.